

THE BYSTANDER'S GUIDE TO STOPPING SEXUAL ASSAULT

Welcome back to college. It's time for your #CollegeReorientation

USE HUMOR

Use humor to distract someone who may be creating a risky situation so the person who is at risk has an opportunity to leave.

Having the aggressor focus on something else, even for a small amount of time, can help the person at risk find an opportunity to exit the situation.

CAUSE A DISTRACTION

SHOW SUPPORT

If you see an aggressor refuse to back down, go up to the person in distress, stand with them, and reiterate what they've said until the other person leaves.

If you do not feel comfortable intervening for any reason, find another person who can either step in on your behalf, or intervene with you as a team.

GET OTHERS INVOLVED

CALL FOR !! HELP

If a situation looks like it's escalating, but you do not feel 100% sure it's safe for you or another person to intervene, call security or a campus authority.
